custom audio/video installation integrated smart building technology

integrated lifestyle

Bringing your heating, lighting, security, computer and home entertainment together is not just a dream. Reality Logic specialises in integrating all aspects of your home together to bring you a smart home that works together with you and your lifestyle. From stylish flat screen installations through to home cinemas, multi-room audio/video systems and smart home technology, we can help you turn the dream into reality.

property development suppliers

If you are an architect, property developer, interior designer, landscape designer, kitchen designer, bathroom designer or have any other association with property development then Reality Logic can help you add value to your products and services through the addition of integrated technology and entertainment. Whether you are designing for a single room, whole house or even multi-dwelling units, boats or offices you simply have to be thinking about integration for now and the future. Not only can we help you find solutions to fit your customers requirements and budgets, we can also help you open up new ideas to your customers that add value and provide additional revenue opportunities.

boardrooms and conference centres

A stylish boardroom with integrated audio/video and data facilities, lighting and heating is a must for any image conscious business. Reality Logic can help create the right presentation environment whether it be a single boardroom, large conference hall or multiple conference rooms. We offer solutions that can integrate all the systems in a room and even allow monitoring and control of multiple rooms from remote locations.

digital signage

More and more businesses are using electronic visual displays to reach their customers. Reality Logic can provide solutions right from a single display to interactive systems that work in multiple locations and can be remotely updated on demand with new content. So whether it's a shop front, reception area, sales floor or even multiple showroom locations, Reality Logic can provide the technology to work with your marketing and presentation requirements.

specialist requirements

Reality Logic are able to provide solutions for almost any requirement. Requests for LCD screens for use in bathrooms, behind mirrors, dropping from the ceiling or lifting from behind fireplaces can all be catered for. We work with the best suppliers in the market for audio/video furniture and can supply all the best quality cabling and associated accessories required to meet the highest of specifications.
